“ Jerry was my grandson Connor's father. They recently reconnected and enjoyed each others company every weekend over the last few months. He enjoyed seeing his son progress in his schoolwork and praised him every time he saw a great test score or daily work paper. He loved tossing a football back and forth with Connor. Jerry was so intelligent and we had several very interesting conversations . He struggled with inner issues sometimes but he had a sparkle in his eye when he talked about Connor. HIs life was cut short way too soon.
